

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A method of manufacturing a structure having pores, comprising the steps of:

preparing the substrate having recesses in its surface;

providing a film on the surface of the substrate;
and

anodizing the film.